Biography of the Late Seyed Hossein Fallah Noshirvani

The late Seyed Hossein Fallah Noshirvani was born into a religious family in 1902, in Noshirvan Kola, Babol, Iran. His path to prosperity was full of innumerable vicissitudes which eventually led to his becoming a famous steel and cotton merchant in Tehran.

According to his journals, he bestowed most of his expenditure on civil and prosperous of different cities in Mazandaran province, especially Babol. The number of ineffaceable traces that he left is approximately reaching to 50 outstanding ones. These traces can accurately reflect his beliefs on the Providence of the next generations of the country.

The most invaluable relic which was left by Late Mr. Noshirvani is the foundation of Babol Technical Institute constructed on 17 hectares land. This benevolent man bequeathed all the land to Ministry of Science, Research and Technology of Iran in trade for only a batch of rock candy. The constructed institute which was established in 1969 was then inaugurated in 1973 with three majors, namely Electronic, Civil and Mechanical Engineering only after he deceased in 1972. The very first name of the university, Babol Technical Institute, was named after Tehran Polytechnic Technical Institute by late Mr. Noshirvani himself while formerly there was no technical university in the country and technical institutes were only few in numbers, revealing that he had the foresight to do so.

May him rest in peace!
